MFR002: CHRISTOPHER MCFALL – RED IS THE COLOR OF PRICE BY RELATION

Moving Furniture Records is proud to announce the second release Christopher McFall – Red is the color of price by relation.

Christopher McFall had to say the following himself about this album: 'Red Is The Color of Price by Relation' was composed from the late summer of 2008 until late December of 2008. Given this, it's some of my most recent material. I feel that this is a difficult series of works for me to put into context, honestly. There were so many revisions at hand with these pieces and the works didn't really begin to assume a finalized format until late November. Additionally, I had thought about quitting altogether due to health problems related to my hearing and due to the emotional fallout associated with the resurfacing of an old lover of 5 years past, hence the pieces titled 'My Teeth' and 'Her Teeth' sprung into existence. The works are the product of manipulations involving piano and 2 broken phonographs. There's a few field recordings of birds that frequent the East Crossroads of Kansas City mixed in also.
